

GEO'S BUFFET QUEUE THEORY

This is the current state of line-ups.
... and the way to circumnavigate the idiots.

Why does society accept fast lane on highways and stay to the right on escalators, but freak out when someone cuts in front of a moron?
New societal convention: FOUR LENGTHS is the minimum acceptable gap to all line-cutting.

[defn: 'length' is 'one fat body width' -- think 'length' in horse racing.]

Conveniently, breads are usually early enough in the lineup that if you plan to stay the the lineup, at least you can munch on buns.

Plates are placed so early in the queue that they encourage people to line crash, so GO FOR IT.

FILLER FOOD
(aka veggies)
The loss leader that idiots get suckered into

MAIN COURSE
(AKA hot food)
... the only reason to be in the line up!

blah blah!
"ahh hahhh!!"

!@#%&!!#%&!!

THIS IS YOUR CHANCE!

You've already suffered the lack of an organized line to get this point. The doofus in blue is trying to decide between iceberg lettuce, and romaine. It's going to take a while. She also has to be told what that yellow stringy thing is.

Added incentive: The oblivious gaggle of chatters in turquoise have created a small gap. It proves that they don't really care about the lineup, or the disorganized mob accumulating behind them (notice the dead guy who starved waiting in line - he only wanted an ice cream from the dessert station -- the other end of the line).

Also, there's a really good chance that orange mom will be doing a circus act, balancing her plate, and her orange kids. She's also going to have to explain that the yellow things are beans.

Skinny Pinky will no doubt skip the main dishes, because she only eats rabbit food (aka vegan -- another tirade), thus, opening a virtual vacancy in the line-up by the time she ducks out of the lineup.

Don't attempt to break in here. It's less than 4 lengths. Besides, the fat guy in purple is just putting another gob of sour cream on his two potatoes. You know he's gonna be going fast -- he's probably starving by now! Get outta his way! he's got to hurry up and make it back in line for seconds!

Here's the dessert table. Strategically placed where it will be empty, because there's a lineup/gauntlet of idiots queued up for the non-desserts/other things!